EAS Consulting Group

A Certified Group Company

California Proposition 65 (or Prop 65) is a unique regulation that can apply to nearly any company in the world selling products and materials into the State of California.

It requires that companies provide specific warnings if the product contains any one of the ~900 chemicals on the Proposition 65 list and the use of the product results in consumer exposure to the chemical above specific thresholds, called Safe Harbor Levels.

Prop 65 is enforced through civil litigation. Non-compliant products are subject to fines and other significant legal enforcement costs. Each year, tens-of-millions of dollars have been paid out in aggregate by industry due to compliance issues.

Understanding what chemicals might be relevant to your products and what to test for, including exposure assessments to determine whether warnings are required, can be a daunting task.

Choosing EAS as your regulatory partner can enhance your compliance, while minimizing enforcement risks in a clear, robust and defensible way.
